FEBRUARY—LOS ANGELES NOSTALGIA

Wednesday, February 29, 2012

You'll be amazed with the Los Angeles treasures from yesteryear that will be showcased today. Our favorite professional L.A. guide, Jonathan, will provide a fascinating perspective of some of L.A.'s best-known and nostalgic landmarks, focusing on their art, architecture and history. Highlights include visits inside the Biltmore Hotel, Union Station, Grand Central Market, the Bradbury Building (pending filming), the Garment District, California Plaza, and Olvera Street. Also an included ride on the recently re-opened Angels Flight, known as the shortest railway in the world. Originally built in 1901 to transport people to the top of Bunker Hill, the Angels Flight funicular railway has recently been refurbished with new cars and new technology. Lunch on your own at Philippe's, home of the original French dip. Price $49. Depart Rodgers Seniors' Center at 9:00 A.M. Return approximately 5:30 P.M.
